Election Night 2026 Scorecard

Tuesday, Nov. 3, 2026 · mark each seat as it is called by the sources you trust · times in Eastern Time (ET)

U.S. House

218 of 435

seats make a majority. Seated today, per the Clerk's list published Oct. 1, 2026: Republicans 218, Democrats 214, independent 1, vacant 2.

U.S. Senate

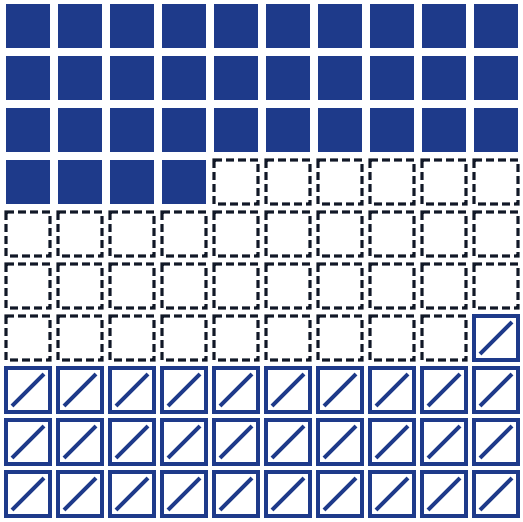

51 of 100

seats make a majority; at 50-50 Vice President JD Vance (R) breaks the tie, so Republicans need 50 and Democrats 51.

Not on the ballot: 65 seats

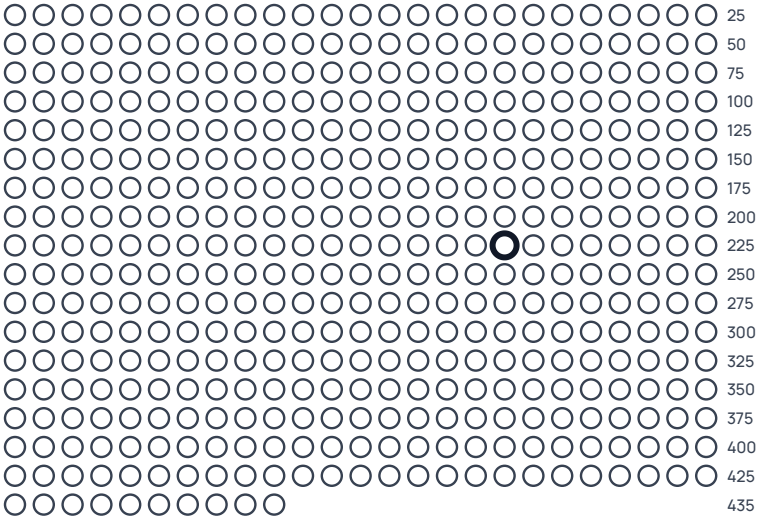

Republicans 31, Democrats and caucusing independents 34. From tonight's 35, Democrats need 17 and Republicans need 19. Arithmetic, not a forecast.

Senate: 100 seats

Solid square: not on the ballot, Democratic caucus (34). Slashed square: not on the ballot, Republican (31). Dashed empty square: on the ballot tonight (35); write D, R or I when called.

House: 435 seats, 218 to win

One circle per seat in rows of 25; the number at the end of a row is the running total. Fill a circle D, R or I as each seat is called. The heavy ring is seat 218, the majority line.
